Away went Gilpin—who but he?
His fame soon spread around:
"He carries weight!" "He rides a race!"

"'Tis for a thousand pound!"
Here's conjecture, but not fact!
Let us stick, like Gilpin on the horse, to the news.

Prince is injured in a fall from his horse, but it doesn't happen to be young Wales. Truth is indeed stranger than fiction.

President Coolidge signs the tax bill but it must be admitted that a $100,000,000 deficit in 1928 won't be good campaign material.

When "Little Egypt" danced on the half-shell, so to speak, at a famous dinner in New York a generation ago, she made even more of a splash than Earl Carroll's Vanities girl in a tub of wine.

And here's another Carol, who is more economical with his "c's" and
"t's," breaking onto the front page, as the wife of the Roumanian Prince speeds to Paris to reclaim him. "A poor thing, but mine own."

Count Slam makes it clear that he's a darned good risk for any board bill—second page. Any sensation can get on the first page but it takes a good one to stay there.

Mussolini is no slouch when it comes to whatever the Italian may be for "talking for Buncombe."

"Who ran to help me when I fell,
And would some pretty story tell,
Or kiss the place to make it well?"

There can be but one answer to this query, so here is incredible news, of a mother throwing her baby into the Potomac, and trying to drown another, a most unusual story, with, doubtless, a background the reporter did not fathom.
And if you had jumped into the river and saved two pathetic beings, would you have calmly wrung out your clothes, and walked off without leaving your name? The unusual is the commonplace.

Two young married women decide they want to die and take poison at about the same time by one of those coincidences which are so customary, and one of them succeeds. One half the world never will know why the other half lives.

Representative Frank Reid, the well-known political clairvoyant, wins $10,000 by reading a telegram to Houdini, but the magician has gotten out of tighter boxes and doubtless will save the jack.

Rumor hath it that some of our leading statesmen consult the mystic crystal down in the Museum.
Let us look into this tomorrow.

Gigli, who fled from the Black Hand in Detroit, gets by before a kid-glove audience.

Speaking about the black hand,
Harry Greb meets one in Madison Square Garden, and there's a new middleweight champion this morning. Tiger Flowers is no lily.

The Mantons do a stillman and beat the jury to a vindication of Miss Marjorie Rameau.

A couple of good Democrats save the President and the administration from a serious embarrassment and the Senate from a mistake of the same kind, but how often hereafter shall we see this splendid team-work between Senator Bruce of Maryland, and Coal Blazes?

The House will vote today on that new bill for the railroads and the brotherhoods, but the operators and miners don't need one, as they already know how to ignore the public.

The dinosaur he stood square-four
To all the winds that blew,
Hind legs 12 feet behind the fore,
(The measurement is true.)
In width he was exactly six,
And built upon that plan,
In what a very dreadful fix
Was prehistoric man!

Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews also brings back the original Jerseyite.
A mosquito 10,000,000 years old commutes from Asia.

McCarl is finding the coal dealers so slow in furnishing their data that he may yet have to turn this into an investigation of the ice business.

Matty Silverman, who defeated John Coolidge the other day, is tadly licked in the final bout of the Amherst championship. Fame the shortest-lived animal in captivity.

The report that alcohol can be made from vinegar for 50 cents a gallon sounds suspiciously like a mythical story. Still we've frequently seen a person who drank negar make a wry face.

COOLIDGE BELIEVES TAX CUTS PRECLUDE REDUCTIONS IN 1927

Little, if Any, Surplus Is Held Likely Under
New Law.

CONGRESS EXPECTED TO CURTAIL EXPENSES

Debt Retirement May Bring
Further Relief; Officials
Witness Signing.

(By Associated Press.)
President Coolidge signed the tax-reduction bill yesterday, making it law, although he fears it may result in a Treasury deficit of $100,000,000 a year hence.

This possibility was advanced to the executive by Director Lord of the budget, who based it on present indications of government receipts and expenditures during the coming fiscal year. The President hopes, however, that increased prosperity will result from the tax cut, swelling government income above present estimates, and that Congress will do its utmost to curtail expenditures.

Likelihood that there will be little, if any, surplus for the next year or two, in the President's opinion, precludes the possibility of further tax reduction next year and perhaps for some time to come.
Ultimately, however, he believes that gradual retirement of the debt with continued government economy will result in further Federal tax relief.

Tentative Returns Allowed.
Immediately after Mr. Coolidge had affixed his signature to the $387,000,000 tax reduction measure, the Treasury called attention that the new law allows an extension in time for payment of the levies. It was announced that persons or domestic corporations with incomes of more than $5,000 would be allowed to file only tentative returns March 15 with payment of one-quarter of the estimated tax due and then be given until May 15 to file final returns.

This action was taken in view of the short time within which the first returns must be filed. The new income blanks with instructions on the effect of the new law already have been mailed.

With a score of cameras recording the event, President Coolidge signed the bill at 10:22 a. m. Behind his chair were grouped Secretary Mellon, Director Lord, Chairman Green, of the House ways and means committee; Chairman Smoot, of the Senate finance committee,
and Representative Garner, of Texas, and Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, ranking Democrats, respectively, on the two committees.

Promptness Pleases Executive.
At the time the President made no written or verbal comment on the bill, but later in the day he was represented at the White House as being highly gratified with the promptness with which Congress worked out the problem and the cooperation of both parties in the work.

It was disclosed that the total amount of reduction proposed for this and next year was above the figure which the President believed was possible, but that he realized it was the business of Congress to determine finally how far this should go. Likewise, the President felt it was now the business of Congress to exercise care in making appropriations not represented in the budget.

In this connection some alarm was felt at the White House over the proposal to authorize increased appropriations for the army and navy. It was pointed out that these services would cost $660,- 000,000.

YOUTH WHO DEFEATED
Coolidge Loses Bout

Amherst, Mass., Feb. 26 (By A. P.).—Matty Silverman today lost most of the prestige he attained
when he defeated John Coolidge, son of President Coolidge, in the Amherst college boxing tournament three days ago. The Brooklyn, N. Y., boy took a decisive licking from William Hughes, of Waterbury, Conn., in the final bout today for the college 135-pound championship.

John Coolidge was not present.
Silverman, who received an offer of $5,000 from a New York matchmaker to box in that city, after his victory over young Coolidge, expressed doubt today that he would accept.

BILL TO REGULATE MEDIUMS DEVELOPS UPROARIOUS HEARING

Houdini Nonplussed by Representative Reid
in Psychic Test.

Spiritualists, mediums, fortune tellers and astrologers figuratively battled with Houdini, the magician, and Representative Sol Bloom, of New York, in an uproarious hearing before the Senate District committee yesterday.

The hearing, in which strong words were exchanged, was on Senator Copeland's bill to regulate fortune tellers, mediums and the like in the District. In the absence of Senator Copeland, Mr. Bloom came over to the Senate side to prosecute the bill. He has a similar one pending in the House on which a District subcommittee headed by Representative McLeod, of Michigan, gave a hearing in the morning and which was as demonstrative as the Senate hearing.

The climax to the morning hearing came when Houdini excitedly threw a crumpled telegram on the committee table and offered $10,- 000 to any of the mediums in the audience to tell him its contents.

In a flash Representative Frank R.
Reid, of Illinois, said: "Why that's the telegram ordering you to appear before the committee."

Houdini Nonplussed.
So it was. Houdini was nonplussed, while Mr. Reid asserted that he had long been a clairvoyant.

At the afternoon hearing Mr.
Bloom insisted that the bill was not aimed at legitimate spiritualists, but at fakes. So did Mr. Houdini.

But when Mr. Houdini got to talking, with everybody in the room shouting at him, he gave it as his opinion that all spiritualists were fakes, subsequently modifying his statement to embrace "at least all those with whom I have come in contact."

Mr. Bloom tried to get Jane Coates, well-known psychic medium; Dr. Alfred H. Terry, head of the First Spiritualist church here;
Dr. Harry P. Strack, its secretary, and Mrs. Harlow Goetz, of Philadelphia, leader in the spiritualist movement, to say what specific objection they had to his bill.

He gained the admission from them that while theirs and similar organizations might be all right, there were organizations by which they were being deceived.

LITHUANIA APPEALS
TO STOP POLE POLICE

League Intervention Asked in Alleged Invasion by Armed Force.

Geneva, Switzerland, Feb. 26 (By
A. P.).—Lithuania has asked the intervention of the League of Nations against Poland in connection with recent frontier incidents.

A semi-official statement issued in Kovno, the Lithuanian capital, Wednesday, charged that 200 Polish police, armed with hand gunnades and machine guns, had crossed the frontier between Kilescibatos and Podaje and occupied the forest on the Lithuanian side. Seven Lithuanian police were said to have been taken prisoner and one was missing. Three hundred Poles were sent to guard the occupied forest.
Lithuania a year ago protested an alleged attack on her frontier by Polish patrols.

The Polish-Lithuanian frontier was laid down by the conference of ambassadors under the provisions of the treaty of Versailles.

Throws Babe Into Water

OLDER BOY ELUDES HIS FRANTIC PARENT

2 Government Employees Aid
In Rescues; Woman Had Nervous Breakdown.

Throwing her 2-year-old baby into the icy waters of the Tidal basin shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Marguerite Lillian Dickey, of Detroit, stopping at 1714 Fifteenth street northwest, attempted unsuccessfully to throw her 6-year-old boy, Billy, after the baby, and then flung herself into the waters to drown, according to witnesses and the story told to Emergency hospital physicians.

An unidentified man who happened to pass at the time, jumped in fully clothed and saved the baby and woman from drowning.
Earle R. Strong, 29 years old, of 2501 Hamlin street northeast, an employee of the War Department, and E. J. Skidmore, employed at the United States Shipping Board, Navy Department building, who were passing in their automobiles, formed a human rope, enabling the unidentified man to lift the baby and his mother to safety.

Wraps Coat About Babe.
Billy, who had run away from his mother when she attempted to toss him into the waters after the brother, wrapped his overcoat around his baby brother when Strong and Skidmore took his mother and brother to Emergency hospital.

Drs. Pickford and Geier, of the Emergency hospital staff, found the infantly drowned and suffering intensely from exposure. They pumped the water out of his stomach and then placed the boy in bed with hot-water bottles. His mother was hysterical, but otherwise seemed little affected by her plunge.

Billy, in explaining to hospital physicians his harrowing experience, declared that his mother told him to get ready to go down to the river. Taking her baby and older son in a taxicab to the foot of Seventeenth street, the boy said his

McAdoo Ready to Run
If Smith Enters Race

New York, Feb. 26 (By A. P.).—
If the next Democratic convention is deadlocked in its choice between William Gibbs McAdoo and Gov. Al
Smith the presidential nomination will go either to Gov. A. Victor Donahy of Ohio, or to Edward T.
Meredith, of Iowa. Judge David Ladd Rockwell, of Cleveland, who was campaign manager for McAdoo in 1924, said today.

Judge Rockwell said that Mc-Adoo, while not now a candidate, has lost none of his strength which deadlocked the Madison Square Garden convention. He intimated that McAdoo was prepared to avow his candidacy as soon as Gov. Smith entered the race.

BABY AND MOTHER ARE SAVED FROM DROWNING

WOMAN DIES, ANOTHER SUFFERING FROM POISON

Mrs. A. Seemark Despondent, Kin Says; Mrs. Hunter
Collapses on Street.

RECOVERY IS EXPECTED

Poison, police say, cost one woman's life yesterday, while another woman is recovering in George Washington university hospital as a result, according to police, of attempting to end her life. Mrs. Agnes Seemark, 26 years old, 1020 Eighteenth street northwest, is dead and Mrs. Dorothy Hunter, 21 years old, 3241 Georgia avenue northwest, will recover.

Mrs. Seemark, according to police, returned to her home shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, from a shopping tour. She asked members of her family to look at her purchases, and while they were doing so, police say, Mrs. Seemark went to her room and swallowed poison. She died five minutes later.

Beside her body, Mrs. Edna Sea-mark, her mother-in-law, found a typewritten note, reading, "To whom it may concern: What I am doing is of my own free will and because I want to do it. I am just tired of living and am going to end it all. Good-by. Mrs. H. W. Sea-mark." Beneath this was written in ink: "I will sign this so there will be no mix-up about it. Agnes Seemark." Coroner Nevitt issued a certificate of suicide.

Mrs. Seemark had been married only a year to Horace Seemark and lived with her husband's family at the Eighteenth street address. According to Seemark's mother, her daughter-in-law had been despondent for more than a week, but no reason could be given for her depression.

TRANSFORMING VINEGAR INTO ALCOHOL REPORTED

Internal Revenue Agent Says
Two Common Chemicals
Bring the Result.

Philadelphia, Feb. 26 (By A. P.).
A new cheap process of making alcohol which government officers asserted would, unless checked, make prohibition enforcement all but impossible, has been uncovered here by John Whitehead, agent of the bureau of internal revenue.

Whitehead, who has been investigating the new method since last November, said the alcohol is made of vinegar, combined with two chemicals, easily obtained at any drug store. It can be made for 50 cents a gallon.

According to Whitehead, traces of the new alcohol have been found in Baltimore, Newark, N. J., Chicago, Washington, and this city.

He pointed out that there is no law to prevent the sale of vinegar, and declared that carloads of the fluid are being shipped throughout the country.

In telling of the process of manufacture, Whitehead said that the vinegar is placed in a large vat, the chemicals thrown in, and the mixture allowed to stand. After a period of time the chemicals sink to the bottom of the container, leaving the alcohol on top.

Local Federal authorities admitted they knew of the new alcohol, and William G. Mardock, Federal prohibition administrator for Pennsylvania, said he was working on the problem.

QUEEN GOING TO PARIS FOR TALK WITH CAROL

Former Crown Prince Said to Be Breaking With Mlle.
Lupescu.

ZIZI ALSO SEEKING HIM

Paris, Feb. 26 (By A. P.).—Paris is in a fair way to become a miniature Roumanian capital, with Carol, who recently renounced his rights as Roumanian crown prince, established here, and his mother, Queen Marie, and his former morganatic wife, Mme. Zizi Lambino, accompanied by his son, reported on the way, and royal courtiers hurrying here from Bucharest and Milan.

Carol today avoided newspaper men and photographers. He is taking all his meals in his apartments.

Rumors are insistent that Mme.
Lupescu, who was Carol's constant companion in Milan, and who came to Paris with him, is losing his affection. It is pointed out that the couple have been seen together not more than once since their arrival.

Carol's heart, as well as the prize of the secret diplomatic comings and goings. The newspapers say Mme. Lambino is coming to press the claims of herself and her son, Mlle. Lupescu is fighting to retain the place from which she ousted Mme. Lambino, while Queen Marie, in the interests of the crown, will try to thrust both women from Carol's affections.
In order, perhaps, to reconcile him and his former wife, Princess Ite-

Right of U. S. to Close Alcohol Plants Upheld

New York, Feb. 26 (By A. P.).—
The right of Prohibition Administrator Foster to refuse to renew permits to alcohol denaturing plants was upheld today by Federal Judge Hand in district court.

The permits of thirteen of fifteen denaturing plants in New York city were canceled December 31, 1925, when they expired. Foster alleged that most of the alcohol released had found its way into the hands of bootleggers.

The decision returned today was expected to be used as a precedent all over the country.

The prince's fall was caused by the breaking of his horse's saddle girth. Tonight Princess Mafalda, the king and queen were at his bedside.

to Be Placed in Grove in Potomac Park.

PUBLIC TO SUBSCRIBE
$250,000 FOR ERECTION

Names of Dead to Be Carved in Dome; To Be Used for Band Concerts.

A model of the proposed memorial to those members of the military and naval forces of the United States from the District of Columbia who served their country in the world war has been placed on exhibition before the public of Washington, preparatory to the opening of a campaign for popular subscriptions to raise the money to erect it.

The memorial will be in the form of a Doric temple of white marble and will be situated in a grove of trees in Potomac park, just south of the reflecting pool of the Lincoln memorial. The architects were Frederick H. Brooke, Nathan Wyeth and Horace W. Pease.

The model is in Woodward & Lothrop's window, at Eleventh and F streets northwest.

Names of all the District participants in military and naval operations incident to the war will be preserved within the corner stone. The names of the 256 who lost their lives in the conflict will be chiseled on the ceiling of the temple.

Cost to Be $250,000.

The temple also will be dedicated to music. Military concerts will be presented there. Its cost, it is estimated, will be around $250,000. A commission has been created by Congress to erect the memorial. This body hopes that the money will be contributed in small amounts by a large number of persons.

A placard has been placed by the model now on display, which reads as follows:

"Model of a memorial to the armed forces of the United States from the District of Columbia who served their country in the great war, to be erected by popular subscription in Potomac park and used for military concerts. The names of the District's heroic dead will be inscribed on the inner face of the dome."

PROVIDENT ASSOCIATION SUES GWYNN GARDINER

Attorney's Mismanagement
Cost Relief Firm $100,000, Plaintiff Avers.

$250,000 IS SOUGHT

W. Gwynn Gardiner, an attorney, and former District commissioner, was sued yesterday in circuit court by the Provident Relief Association, 738 Twelfth street northwest, for $250,000 damages for acts alleged to have been done by him in connection with the management of the affairs of the association since April 9.

On that date Gardiner and Charles S. Baker were appointed by the equity court to manage the association's affairs in place of John Brosnan, Jr., the then president. Five sisters of Brosnan had fled suit to oust him from control and Gardiner was counsel for the sisters.

According to the declaration presented by W. Russell Thomas, counsel for the association, the association should have been made a party to the suit brought by Brosnan's sisters, but was not, and because it was not, it is alleged, the business of the association suffered thereby. By reason of Gardiner's acts and management, it is charged, the association's business suffered a loss of $100,000, it is alleged.

No charges of any sort are made against Baker. He resigned some time ago. Both he and Gardiner recently asked Justice Hoehling to fix their compensation. Brosnan was sent to jail last autumn by Justice Hoehling in a contempt proceeding growing out of his failure to surrender certain of the assets of the association. He was released just before Christmas.

WOMAN SEEKS TO END OWN LIFE AND SONS'

mother told him she was going to toss him in the river.

Walking along the sea-wall of the tidal basin near the Paul Jones monument, Billy told hospital nurse, his mother threw his baby brother from her arms into the water. Becoming frightened, Billy said he broke from his mother's grasp and ran to the roadway, his mother meantime trying to catch him. Suddenly wheeling about, Billy told doctors, he saw his mother throw herself into the water near the spot where his baby brother had disappeared.

Screaming, Billy attracted the attention of a passerby, who, after removing his overcoat, plunged into the basin, seized the baby, who had disappeared under the waters two times, and then caught the woman by the hair, swimming around until help came.

Strong and Skidmore, who had seen the actions of the mother to catch Billy and then throw herself overboard, alighted from their automobiles and ran to the sea wall. Strong reached down to where the unidentified man was struggling in the waters and while Skidmore held his feet, brought the baby and his mother to the top of the six-foot seawall.

While Strong and Skidmore worked frantically over the mother and child, the unidentified rescuer put on his overcoat and disappeared.

Had Nervous Breakdown.

It was learned at the hospital that Mrs. Dickey, whose husband is working as a photographer in Detroit, had recently been confined to her bed as the result of a nervous breakdown.

When hospital authorities questioned Mrs. Dickey, she refused to comment, burying her head in the covers instead. It is understood, however, that the woman had been dependent for some time.

Little Billy cried incessantly until a nurse gave him a cup of hot milk. When the nurse put him in bed by the side of his mother, Billy looked over to his mother and said "I don't like you any more, mother."

Man, Hurt by Truck, In Critical Condition

Patrick J. Flather, a driver for the Corby Baking Co., 46 years old, 514 C street northeast, is in a critical condition in Georgetown University hospital suffering from skull fracture, which he suffered yesterday in a traffic mishap in front of 4510 Conduit road northwest.

Flather was about to deliver bread to the Conduit road address when, police say, he walked against the side of a truck operated by Daniel Beverly, colored, 40 years old, of South Washington, Va. Flather, unconscious, was taken to the hospital in a passing automobile. Beverly was taken into custody by Police Officer A. S. Bohrer, and is being detained at the Seventh precinct pending the outcome of the injuries.

Mosquito, 10,000,000 Years Old, Described

A fossil mosquito of 10,000,000 years ago, a fireplace that blazed 25,000 years ago, relics of a literal "how brown" man who lived some 100,000 years ago, and other traces of ancient man and animal life in Asia were described by Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews last evening before members of the National Geographic society, in the auditorium of the Masonic temple.

One of the most interesting finds was the upright leg of a dinosaur, which led to the conclusion that the animal had been caught in quicksand. This theory was proved when, by digging 12 feet in front of the first find, the foreleg was found, and by further digging 6 feet to the right of each of these, the other legs were unearthed. Whether the original home of man was in Asia, Africa or Europe was still undetermined, and that all three places were possibilities, he said.

Commissioners Favor Women's Jury Service

The District board of commissioners yesterday reported to Congress that it had no objection to passage of the bill providing for jury service by women in the local courts.

On another woman's bill, referring to equal rights in descent of property, the commissioners said it was a matter of law and they deemed it inappropriate for them to express an opinion. A proclamation was issued by the board designating April 12 to 19 as dental week and urging all to have their teeth examined at that time.

SENATE SNARL DELAYS CITY APPROPRIATIONS

$1,700,000 Is Menaced in Wrangle Over Indian Item in Deficiency Bill.

NOTICE FROM WARREN

District deficiency appropriations of $1,700,000 are being endangered by a wrangle in the Senate over making the Navajo Indians pay $100,000 as half of the cost of bridges in Arizona and New Mexico.

After trying for two days to get the Senate to adopt the conference report without this provision, Chairman Warren, of the Senate appropriations committee, served notice yesterday that he did not intend longer to contend for its adoption. Defeat of the report was prevented Thursday only by senators absenting themselves from the chamber to break a quorum.

No District items are in controversy, but all are contingent upon final passage of the whole bill.

Of the local appropriations $700,000 is for street paving and widening projects, to be started this spring. There is also involved about $200,000 to carry out school projects.

The traffic director is waiting for $41,000, mostly to complete his traffic signal program.

There is also $140,000 provided for the director of public buildings and parks for emergency repairs to temporary buildings.

Conner, financial secretary, and Mrs. Anna J. Light, treasurer. The board of directors will be Mrs. Robert Rabbitt, chairman; Mrs. M. McCarthy, Mrs. T. P. Brown, Miss Katherine Morgan, and Miss Mary Moriarty. The Rt. Rev. C. P. Thomas, pastor of St. Patrick's church, is spiritual director.

Traffic Signs to Be Studied.

Designs for standard and uniform parking signs will be studied for approval by the commission of fine arts at its next meeting on the request of the traffic department.

U. S. DEPARTMENTS GIVEN $79,847,000 UNDER SUPPLY BILL

State, Justice, Commerce and

IMMIGRATION AMOUNT
ABOVE BUDGET FIGURE

Appropriations Committee
Calls Attention to Crowded Federal Penitentiaries.

Appropriations totaling $79,847,000 for the Departments of State, Justice, Commerce and Labor, were reported to the House yesterday. As reported by the committee, the appropriations are $2,353,000 above current funds, but $59,480 below budget estimates.

The State Department is given $16,775,000; Justice, $24,095,000; Commerce, $29,735,000, and Labor, $9,536,000.

The bureau of immigration's item was boosted $1,000,000 over budget estimates to provide for a continuation of the deportation of aliens and maintenance of the Canadian and Mexican border patrols "at an efficient strength." A force of 1,880 men would be maintained under this appropriation.

The appropriations committee urgently recommended that Congress take notice of the crowded condition of Federal penitentiaries with a view to relieving the situation.

Boys' School Gets Funds.

An appropriation of $142,793 for the National Training School for Boys was reported to the House by the Department of Justice appropriation bill yesterday. The committee followed budget estimates, which are $57,082 more than last year's appropriation, necessitated by the increased number of inmates.

The institution now has 379 boys, or a daily average of 363, as compared with a daily average of 326 last year. G. A. Stirling, superintendent, testified before the committee. The average age is 15 1/2 years. Offenders against the postal laws furnished the greatest number of his charges, he said, presenting a list to show that he had 87 such offenders on hand now, while 48 the next greatest number of juvenile violators, are held in connection with the national motor vehicle theft act.

Action on Park Bill Is Delayed in Senate

Senator Phipps, of Colorado, sought unsuccessfully yesterday to have the $600,000 Rock Creek-Potomac parkway bill with his amendment providing that the expense be split on the 60-40 ratio considered in the Senate yesterday.

Senator Curtis, majority leader, opposed immediate consideration, because of the absence of Senator Capper, chairman of the Senate District committee, in a committee hearing. The committee reported the bill providing that the District should bear all of the $600,000 out of the surplus fund. It was agreed that the measure retain its place on the calendar for consideration some time next week.

CARROLL, UNDER GUARD, IS BEFORE GRAND JURY

Theatrical Producer Quizzed
About Reported Bathtub Incident at Party.

COUNTLESS INTO COURT

New York, Feb. 26 (By A. P.).—The party given Monday night by Earl Carroll, theatrical producer, at which a nude showgirl was reported to have served guests wine from a bathtub in which she sat, today proved to be a boomerang. He was called before a Federal grand jury which is seeking to determine whether the Volstead act was violated.

Appearing with a private guard, he went into the jury room and remained half an hour, appearing nervous at the end of the session. He refused to discuss his appearance before the grand jury.

Police Commissioner McLaughlin earlier had ordered an investigation by the police into the question of whether the statute against nudity had been violated at the dinner.

Carroll has denied the bathtub incident, as has Vera, Countess of Cathcart, who was a guest of honor at the party.

The probability that police would take no action unless a complaint comes forward with substantiated testimony, developed after a conference between District Attorney Banton, Chief Magistrate McAdoo and Inspector William J. Leahy, who was conducting the investigation ordered by Commissioner McLaughlin.

Arthur Garfield Hayes, attorney for the Countess of Cathcart, announced today that he had telegraphed to Secretary of Labor Davis in Washington for his permission to have the Countess surrender in court next Tuesday. This, he said, would enable her to appear in Federal court on that day for the arguments on the habeas corpus writ to require Immigration Commissioner Curran to explain his reasons for detaining her. The Countess was released from Ellis island on $500 bond last Sunday, for a 10-day leave.

MUSSOLINI SEEKING A LATIN-SLAV UNION TO RESIST TEUTONS

Conference With Nintchitch Is Now Furthering Plan; Poland Is Aided.

CONTROL OF BALKANS IS THE ULTIMATE AIM

Political Center of Europe Would Be Moved From Paris to Rome.

Rome, Feb. 26 (By A. P.).—The visit of Foreign Minister Nintchitch of Yugoslavia to Rome, has served to indicate, through conversation in regard to it in authoritative circles, that Italy is embarking on a foreign policy in keeping with Premier Mussolini's belief that the Latin and Slav peoples must stand together against the rising tide of German nationalist ambitions.

Although much secrecy surrounds the conversation, it was an open secret in Rome that what was an open secret in Rome, in an interview.

"The closest collaboration between Italy and Yugoslavia is already operative. The past friendship between the two nations can be broadened on the basis of recent experiences."

It was learned on excellent authority today that following out Mussolini's beliefs, Italy is embarking on a two-fold plan of action, which includes vigorous support of Poland's desire for a permanent seat in the council of the League of Nations and strengthening of co-operation with Yugoslavia and other Balkan states to prevent unification of Austria and Germany and to protect the frontiers laid down by the treaties of Versailles and St. Germain.

World Rule in Balkans.

While ostensibly merely defensive, this plan, it is pointed out, constitutes a first step toward the realization of Italy's cherished ambition to assume leadership among the Latin nations and to obtain a major share of influence in the Balkans.

Political circles in Rome are interested in newspaper announcements of the impending visit to Rome of the Greek foreign minister, who is expected to stop here on his way to Geneva. Others also see significance in the presence here of Luis de Souza Dantas, the Brazilian Minister to Paris. Further, it is reported that the visit of M. Nintchitch may be followed by a visit by King Alexander of Yugoslavia to King Victor Emmanuel.

Fascist newspapers are commenting on what they see as the moving of the political center of Europe from Paris to Rome.

Premier Deletes Speeches.

Rome, Feb. 12 (By A. P.). (By mail).—Fascist Italy has two political attitudes, one for domestic and the other for foreign consumption. It has been revealed by recent application of the censorship laws to accounts of Premier Mussolini's speeches.

Each time the premier makes an important speech before parliament he really makes two speeches—the version heard by his auditors and another version, corrected by the premier himself, from which the phrases held to be too strong for foreign consumption are "weeded out."

Immediately after making an address, Premier Mussolini examines a stenographic copy and makes changes in it. Some alterations are merely improvements in grammatical construction or turns of phrases, but others are intended to remove potential dynamite. While this process is going on, all press dispatches for foreign nations are held up. Only those which conform with the corrected version are allowed to pass the ever-vigilant censor.

Reply to Germany Cited.

A recent example of this was the alteration of a phrase in Premier Mussolini's answer to Foreign Minister Stresemann, of Germany. In the senate the premier said: "I confirm the letter and spirit of my previous speech, not excluding the accent on the phrase about carrying the Italian flag beyond the Brenner frontier, which Stresemann can interpret as he chooses." The corrected version read: "about the Italian flag on the Brenner."

Supporting the army reorganization bills, the fascist chieftain said: "Eleven regiments will be stationed north of the Po river," which meant that the regions conquered during the war would be unusually heavily garrisoned. The corrected version read: "Eleven regiments will be stationed in fitting places."

GIRL PHONE OPERATOR BLOCKS BANK ROBBERY

Calls 50 Subscribers at Night and Battle Follows; One Bandit Is Wounded.

"SCARED," SHE, ADMITS

Fort Worth, Tex., Feb. 26 (By A. P.).—A bit of a blond girl, Miss Gertrude Medford, who is assistant bank cashier at Aledo by day and watches the telephone switchboard by night, today described her experience as a "Paul Revere" who carried the news of an attempted bank robbery at Aledo shortly after midnight this morning and prevented the robbery.

Officers and deputized citizens opened fire on the bandits while they were attempting to open the vault of the bank and a running fight followed in which Ed Winton, 27, of Wichita Falls, alleged to have been one of the robbers, was severely wounded. His two companions fled.

Miss Medford, who weighs scarcely 100 pounds, knows all the five score telephone subscribers personally, and used that knowledge when the critical moment came this morning.

"When the board clicked at 1 a. m. today, I was wide awake in an instant," she said. "I heard Tom Gray, the constable, say, 'Get my brother on the phone; there's a robbery.' I listened while he told me about it, and at the same time was ringing his brother S. B. Gray, Justice of the Peace."

"From then on until 4 a. m. I was too busy to know what I was thinking about," the girl related. "I didn't even put on my clothes; never did until I got ready to come to work this morning."

"Yes, I was scared. Mostly I was afraid our men would be killed. Every shot I heard I had terrible pictures of somebody being rolled over on the ground. I leaped first those I knew would be quickest to understand what was wanted," the girl explained. "You know some people just naturally catch on sooner than others."

"Just 18 minutes after Tom Gray called me they started firing," she said. "He told me to warn the people to keep out of the way. I guess I must have called 50 people that time."

Miss Medford was "on the job" at the bank at 8 a. m. today.

OFFICIAL ASSERTS EDUCATORS OF U. S. WILL RETURN SOON

S. D. Shankland, Secretary of Department, Praises Facilities Here.

NEXT CONVENTION CITY TO BE CHOSEN IN APRIL

Careful Estimates Place Number Attending Session in Capital at 15,000.

Prediction that the department of superintendence of the National Education association will select Washington again for its annual convention place in the near future was made yesterday by S. D. Shankland, secretary of the department.

Washington, Mr. Shankland said, had more than fulfilled the expectations of Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of District schools and retiring president of the department. Delegates to the convention, which closed here Thursday, have expressed high praise for the facilities of the National Capital and the convenience of the arrangements made for them here, he said.

Selection of the meeting place of the next, the fifty-seventh annual convention of the department, will not be made before a meeting of the new executive committee to be held the last Saturday in April. Nine cities have bid for the convention. Atlanta formally extending an invitation yesterday.

The National Education association is to hold its annual meeting in Philadelphia this summer and it is said to be highly improbable that the superintendence department will select an Eastern city for its next annual meeting. The choice lies between the West and South, it is said.

Careful estimates yesterday placed the attendance at the convention here at slightly more than 15,000. Superintendents who registered 3,292 out of a total of 6,568 in the entire country. Many did not register and thousands of others attended the meetings.

Miss Mary McKimmon, president of the National Education association, yesterday declared the superintendence and allied meetings here the most important and successful in the history of the organization, both in attendance and the importance of the subjects considered. Most of the delegates left Washington yesterday, many departed Thursday night, but a considerable number remained here to attend the hearings on the department of education bill and seek to influence members of Congress to support it.

Education Department Bill Is Indorsed and Opposed

(By the Associated Press.) Scores of educators testified yesterday both for and against the bill to create a department of education at hearings before the joint congressional committee. The measure was indorsed by Payson Smith, commissioner of education of Massachusetts, on the ground that a Federal department of education with a cabinet officer at its head would produce educational standardization, which he contended was needed as much in this field as in any other. Carroll G. Pearce, former president of the National Education association, also indorsed the bill and attacked the testimony of several opposition witnesses, whom he charged with speaking without authority.

William F. Montavon, representing the National Catholic Welfare conference, attacked the bill as "purposeless, unnecessary and useless." He declared it would mean a further extension of Federal bureaucracy and would bring public education into Federal politics. He further charged that the proposed legislation was demanded by only a small group of school officials, who have a "narrow, mechanical view of the functions of education."

T. C. McCracken Heads Educators' Fraternity

Dr. T. C. McCracken, dean of the college of education, Ohio university, was re-elected president yesterday of Kappa Delta Pi, national educational fraternity, closing its biennial convention at the Willard hotel yesterday.

First vice president, Miss Pauline Humphreys, of the central Missouri teachers; second vice president, Dr. A. L. Hill, of Milwaukee, and executive counselor, Dr. W. C. Bagley, of Columbia university, also were re-elected. Prof. E. L. P. Williams, of Tiffin, Ohio, was named recorder treasurer, replacing Miss Mabel Payne, resigned, and Dr. W. W. Phelan, of the University of Oklahoma, was elected to fill the office of historian.

TRAINING OF PARENTS URGED FOR CHILDREN

Trusting to Maternal Instinct Is Silly, Nursery Conference Is Told.

Trusting "the maternal instinct" to dictate the proper rearing of children was described as "silly" by Dr. Lois H. Meek, educational secretary of the American Association of University Women, speaking before the annual conference on nursery schools yesterday in the Washington hotel. Parents, she said, should receive special and careful training for the job.

"Rich elderly women" members of boards dealing with children do more harm than good, and should be replaced by young, trained mothers, Prof. Patty Smith Hill, of Teachers college, of Columbia university, told the conference. "Then," she said, "you may get some results."

Imaginative tales of children should be met with common sense, care, and patience unless harm was to be done to the child, Dr. Helen T. Welles, of Detroit, declared. Miss May Hill, of Cleveland, warned that mothers' persons required careful administration to avoid drifting.

MEDDLERS SPOILED HIS MARRIED LIFE. SAYS COUNT SALM

Austrian Nobleman Declares Former Millicent Rogers Is Victim of "Poor Advice."

REPORTS HE IS "BROKE" ARE CALLED RIDICULOUS

Wishes Wife Happiness and Asks Now That He Only Be Left Alone.

Count Ludwig Salm von Hoegaerden issued a statement yesterday in which he frankly discussed his position and his affairs. Having come this, the estranged husband of the former Millicent Rogers turned his thoughts to his favorite game—tennis.

The count, who is tennis champion of Austria, will go into training soon for the Davis cup matches. The first meeting will be either in Brussels or Vienna, some time in May.

In a prepared statement, the Austrian nobleman declared that if his wife had been "let alone," he and she would now be living happily together. The countess, he said, had been the victim of "poor advice." Discussing his financial condition, he emphatically denied reports that he was "broke."

"My position is quite clear," he said. "I have sought nothing more than I have obtained—the right to see my child—and I am very well satisfied with the arrangements for my future visitations with him. "I have no desire to force my companionship upon my wife, and while I wish her to have all the public's sympathy, I deemed it only fair to myself and to my son to set forth, as I have done in a sworn statement as part of my court proceedings, the influences which brought about our separation and the disruption of my home.

Hopes Wife Will Be Happy.

"If my wife had been let alone, we would now be living happily together. She has been made the victim of poor advice. I earnestly hope, however, that she will be happy. Mutual love only was the reason for our marriage and its success was not of our choosing.

"Our correspondence for nearly one year after our separation was wholly in terms of endearment. There was never any disagreement between us, until my wife notified me suddenly that she would not return to me. I pleaded with her to reconsider, but she refused.

"I have not heretofore given any public interviews, and those reported in the newspapers were fabrications. My attorney, Herman B. Goodstein, of New York, wished to protect my interests by orderly court proceedings without a trial in the newspapers and advised me to avoid public discussions. My rights have now been fully safeguarded and as I do not contemplate any other legal proceedings, there is no objection to this statement.

"Why should there be so much fuss and conjecture about my motives or my financial condition? I have accepted the ridiculous conceptions of my affairs by some of your enterprising newspapers with all possible amusement, but really it should end somewhere.

"I desire now only to be left alone. I am well able to take care of myself and pay my own way. I have not required or sought financial assistance."

The count's suit for a legal separation from his wife probably will come up for trial in New York the latter part of October. The count will leave here Sunday for New York.

RECONCILIATION HALTS MANTON DIVORCE TRIAL

Jurors Are Dismissed as They Stand 7 to 5 in Favor of the Husband.

MISS RAMBEAU PLEADED

New York, Feb. 26 (By A. P.).—The divorce suit brought by Mrs. Mabel Manton against William Kett Manton, naming Marjorie Rambeau, the actress, as correspondent, was dropped tonight when Mrs. Manton and her husband became reconciled after a conference with Justice Isador Wasservogel.

The jury stood 7 to 5 in favor of the defendant at the time of the dismissal, one of the jurymen said. Miss Rambeau was not in court when the reconciliation was effected. She had left in a highly nervous state soon after the summation of counsel and the sending of the case to the jury.

Bernard H. Sandler, counsel for Miss Rambeau, notified her by telephone of the unexpected outcome. He said she was "overwhelmed with joy" and wished the Mantons "a future of blessed happiness."

Miss Rambeau entered the trial to defend her reputation. She said Manton was only a guest employed to help her learn her part in a play. His presence in her apartment when it was raided early on the morning of August 29, she said, was a professional necessity. Her own negligence and Manton's lack of coat, collar and tie she said was because of the heat.

JOYCE FUNERAL TODAY.

Funeral services for Patrick Joyce, superintendent of Rock Creek park, who served with Lieut. Col. Clarence O. Sherrill and Maj. U. S. Grant 3d in the Philippines and Col. Sherwood A. Cheney, President Coolidge's aid, at Fort Totten, will be held this morning at 9 o'clock at Sacred Heart church. Burial will be in Mount Olivet cemetery.

Mr. Joyce, who died Wednesday, was 64 years old and was born in County Mayo, Ireland. He came to this country and enlisted in the army, fighting in the Spanish war and Philippine insurrections. He retired from the army in 1910, becoming superintendent of Rock Creek park.

Four children survive, Anna R. Mary Marguerite and Patricia Joyce, and a son, Edward F. Joyce.

MRS. R. C. CHEESEMAN DIES

Mrs. R. C. Cheeseaman, widow of Maj. R. C. Cheeseaman of the Forty-fifth Pennsylvania volunteers, died yesterday at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. M. P. Twitchell, 4413 Georgia avenue. Mrs. Cheeseaman was 89 years old.

Mrs. Cheeseaman was a life member of the Methodist home board and was vice president of Sibley Hospital guild. She is survived by her daughters, Mrs. H. A. Ison, Mrs. Twitchell, and her son, Dr. James N. Cheeseaman. The burial will be in Arlington cemetery at 11 o'clock Monday morning.

Security Approved By Paris Deputies

Paris, Feb. 26 (By A. P.).—The Locarno security pact, which thus far has met with considerable criticism, but with little opposition in the chamber debate, was to all intents and purposes approved yesterday by three-quarters of the deputies this afternoon after a lofty and eloquent peace oration by Premier Briand.

Mme. Marcia, local astrologist, arose to oppose the bill, but Mr. Bloom explained that it would not affect her. Then she predicted he would be a senator.

Constance Talmadge Will Be Bride Today

Redwood City, Calif., Feb. 26 (By A. P.).—Miss Constance Talmadge, motion picture actress, and Capt. Alastair William Mackintosh, of London, England, took out a marriage license at the county clerk's office here today. The marriage will take place tomorrow at the home of Jean de St. Cyr, in exclusive Burlingame, near here.

Miss Talmadge gave her age as 25, her occupation as an "artist." Capt. Mackintosh wrote that he has "no occupation" and was 36 years old.

Coolidge to Leave Program to Congress

(By the Associated Press.) President Coolidge intends to leave it largely to Congress to determine not only the date of adjournment but what legislation should be enacted before the present session ends. Definite indications were given yesterday at the White House that he would pursue a hands-off policy, believing that it is a congressional function, and not his, to make a decision as to a program, although he holds himself ready to advise as to procedure.

EVICITION SUIT FILED AGAINST DEPARTMENT

Agriculture Is Occupying Building on Which Lease Expired, Wardman Says.

OPTION IS IN DISPUT

Harry Wardman and his associates, Thomas P. Bones and James D. Hobbs, filed suit against W. V. Jardine, Secretary of Agriculture yesterday in circuit court to oust the department from the Blee building, at 1358 B street northwest, which was purchased by the Wardman organization from the late Mrs. Henrietta Halliday.

According to the declaration filed by Attorneys Wright and Ershler, the government original had a ten-year lease on the building dating from June, 1914, and expiring at the end of the fiscal year 1925. Comptroller General Raymond McCall recently ruled that the government's tenancy expired June 30, 1925. It is charged that the government has refused to accept the ruling.

Another lease figures in this eviction suit. This lease was rejected by the then owners of the building and never became a valid document, but it is stated, part of the lease, which purports to contain an option of renewal at reduced rental, appears to have attached to the lease which was accepted by the then owners.

Hence, a part of one lease and a of another lease are on file in the office of the recorder of deeds, a one whole lease. Mr. Wardman has a duplicate of the lease which was accepted and under which the government occupied the building and this lease definitely expires on June 30 last. It is stated, and contains no provision for a renewal for another ten years at a reduced rental.

NO FEDERAL DEFICIT.

Despite the scare raised about a possible deficit in the Treasury next year, the Secretary of the Treasury says there will be none, if Congress does not run wild in its appropriations.

The President yesterday signed a tax bill that will raise approximately, it is estimated, $2,200,000,000, which is about $387,000,000 less than the amount raised in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1925, and the amount that would be raised in the next fiscal year under the 1924 law. To this probable internal revenue income should be added receipts from customs amounting to approximately $500,000,000 and miscellaneous receipts amounting probably to about $1,000,000; making altogether a total ordinary income for the next fiscal year of about $3,700,000,000. Total ordinary expenditures and reduction of the public debt for the next fiscal year are estimated at about $3,494,000,000, leaving a comfortable margin on the right side.

While Congress has been busy enacting a law to raise public revenue, it has also been devising means of spending the money. The House has already passed six appropriation bills carrying an expenditure of more than $2,688,000,000; and the State, Justice, Commerce and Labor appropriation bill now in the House carries about $89,000,000 more, making a grand total of about $2,765,000,000. Two more regular appropriation bills are to come before Congress—the District of Columbia and the legislative bills.

Just how much more money Congress will spend in special matters, it is impossible to tell; but it is not time for the House and Senate to put on the brakes in the matter of further large appropriations. The sinking fund will call for about $790,000,000 and other miscellaneous items will take several million more. It is rightly expected that general business will be stimulated by tax reduction, which in turn will tend to increase the public revenue; but it would be a calamity for Congress so to reduce revenue taxes or make expenditures as to bring the Treasury too close to the danger line. The public and the business world are placing great reliance in the opinion of Secretary Mellon, who says the Treasury can stand the tax reduction now made. From present indications there will be no deficit.

The legislature of New York is beginning to see the light. Following the lead of Congress in increasing the exemption from income taxes of all incomes of married taxpayers to $3,500, the Albany lawmakers are considering a proposal that the State exemption shall be the same. The minimum rate in New York at present is three-quarters of 1 per cent. This, according to the program, is to be reduced to one-half of 1 per cent for the present year. New Yorkers are allowed 30 days to rebuild their bank accounts after paying first installments of their Federal income taxes. The State tax must be paid in full by the 15th of April.

AIR SERVICE LEGISLATION.

Under the program for the air service recommended in the report of the House committee on naval affairs two giant "dreadnaughts" of the rigid airship type are contemplated. These, if authorized, will exceed in cubic dimensions anything of the kind ever before produced. They are designed to hold 6,000,000 feet of gas, and will be so protected by divisional cells that they would stand puncturing by many bullets without danger of falling. The carrying capacity of these enormous bags would be, according to Admiral Moffett, almost a regiment of men with their equipment. Admiral Moffett told the committee that an American commercial concern has designed a still larger ship for the air service which would have a cubic capacity 500,000 feet greater than the two proposed by the committee. Such a ship, the admiral asserted, could carry 500 men, each with 45 pounds of equipment, from San Francisco to Hawaii in 30 hours.

It is quite likely that the House will pass a bill on the lines suggested in the report of the committee. But the difference of opinion as to air policy between the House and the Senate is so radical that it is feared that it will be impossible to adjust the differences, and senators do not hesitate to assert that there is little likelihood that an agreement can be reached during the present session. The Senate is disposed to favor the passage of the bill "to increase the efficiency of the air service" which was prepared in the War Department and introduced in the Senate by the chairman of the committee on military affairs. This differs in most of its essential features from the bill now being prepared by the House committee.

It would seem as though the four committees on military and naval affairs of the two houses could get together in joint session for the purpose of outlining a policy for the air service which would have some chance of enactment. Apparently, however, each of the four committees is jealous of its own prerogatives, with the consequent dissipation of the hope of adequate air service legislation by the present Congress.

THE RETIREMENT BILL.

If the Stafffield-Leblach bill amending the Federal retirement act so as to increase the pensions of retired employees and decrease the age limit, should fail of passage at this session of Congress, the blame will fall largely upon the government actuaries who have before them the problem of figuring the additional cost to the government of the proposed legislation. The subcommittees of both houses of Congress are ready to report to the full committee a completed bill so soon as information is given them as to the increased cost. If this information is available within ten days or two weeks the new retirement bill in all probability will become law. Senator Stafffield, who is sponsoring the cause of the government employees, is confident of favorable action if the measure is presented to the Senate in time to give that body opportunity to consider it. But a favorable report to the Senate in time to insure passage of the bill depends entirely on the date upon which the report of the government actuaries is made to the committee. A similar situation prevails in the House.

Herbert D. Brown, chief of the bureau of efficiency, is one of the actuaries. He has declared that it will take at least three weeks to prepare the required figures. That will be too late. Mr. Brown is said to be opposed to the proposed plan of a maximum retirement annuity of $1,200 based upon a salary of $1,800, which is incorporated in the bill. Should the actuaries fail to report in the time limit and the bill fail of passage, Mr. Brown will be charged with having purposely delayed the report called for. Certainly with the information given them February 10 by the civil service commission relating to 300,000 employees, the actuaries have sufficient data upon which to base their findings. No business organization would require three weeks to consider and decide such a problem. If the actuaries get down to work they can make their report within a week or ten days, according to members of both houses of Congress.

Some relief must be given the superannuated employees who have served their government so well. Every day's delay withholds from them the compensation that should be theirs. The proposed liberalization of the retirement act which would operate to replace superannuated and therefore inefficient clerks with younger and more vigorous employees, it has been figured, would save the government something like $7,000,000 a year under present conditions. Both efficiency and economy will be promoted if the new retirement bill becomes law. Let Mr. Brown and his fellow actuaries actually act.

MUSIC'S MASTERY.

Congress, in the "Mourning Bride," tells us that "Music hath charms to soothe the savage breast," and Lord Byron in Beppo says that "soprano, basso, even the contra-alto wished him five fathom under the Rialto." Butler in "Hudibras," declares that "discords make the sweetest airs" and that fine old nonconformist minister who was responsible for England's penny postage, inquired, "Why should the devil have all the good tunes?" Coming down to more recent days than those of the poets, we have the assurance of our own fire chief that only last week a musician demonstrated that fire can be extinguished by the proper application of music. Whereupon an Alexandria correspondent suggests that Nero was trying to put out Rome's bonfire. Be that as it may, no one will think of doubting the marvelous story which appeared in The Post's special cablegram from Riga, Latvia. That story bears all the evidences of truth and veracity. It records that a wandering Jewish musician, being approached by three wolves in a forest in that bleak northern country, began to play, and the ferocious beasts sat back on their haunches and watched him. Then he recalled his hand organ. He began to play—the correspondent neglected to indicate whether the music was classic or jazz, and that is not essential—"and at the third selection the wolves fled."

If Little Red Riding Hood had carried a hand organ instead of that basket of goodies to her grandmother she might be alive today.

FOR WORLD WAR VETERANS.

Few persons realize that the United States government has appropriated more than $4,000,000,000 for allowances and benefits on account of soldiers, sailors, and marines who participated in the war with Germany.

Military and naval family allowances are $298,000,000.
Military and naval compensation amounts to $1,037,000,000.
Insurance and receipts from insurance are $1,068,000,000.

Administration amounts to more than $293,000,000.
Hospitalization amounts to more than $385,000,000.

Hospital construction amounts to more than $62,000,000.
Vocational training and sales of articles made amount to more than $719,000,000.

Bonus allowances amount to more than $237,000,000.
Payments of claims amount to more than $38,000,000.

Adjusted service pay amounts to more than $38,000,000.
Adjustment certificate funds amount to more than $236,000,000.

Deducting $606,000,000 for receipts, leaves a net amount spent by the government of more than $3,800,000,000 for the veterans.

RETURN OF AN OLD ENEMY.

Dispatches from Arkansas report the death of a woman and the serious illness of an entire family from trichinosis. A few months ago the bureau of animal industry of the Department of Agriculture was advised of fatalities from the same disease in Minnesota. Trichinosis was quite prevalent in many sections of the West 40 years ago. In fact, the trichina scare extended to Germany and brought about an embargo upon all American pork products in the empire. That embargo threatened to bring about a "diplomatic incident" when Western congressmen, whose constituents were thus discredited, descended upon the State Department and demanded retaliation through an embargo against German products. But the excitement died out after legislation was enacted which authorized the bureau of animal industry to make a microscopic examination of all pork designed for export.

There never was danger of contracting the disease from eating well-cooked pork, even if the muscular tissue of the hog was permeated with the larvae of the small nematode parasite worm known as trichina spiralis. It has also been found that cold is as effective as heat in the destruction of the parasite. Today, since the enactment of the meat inspection law, the microscope has given way to the refrigerating plant. All pork slaughtered in the packing houses in which government inspection is maintained must be frozen if it is designed to be eaten in the raw state. It has been demonstrated that a temperature of five degrees Fahrenheit will afford complete protection against infection, and not for years has a case of trichinosis been traced to hog products prepared under inspection.

The few cases of infection reported in recent years have always occurred among people who ate pork killed on the farms, or by country butchers. But no danger is to be feared even from the consumption of uninspected pork if it is subjected to freezing cold or if cooked at a temperature of 212 degrees.

WHO PAYS THE INCOME TAX?

Representative Ackerman, of New Jersey, has had inserted in the Record an interesting tabulation of the income tax by States. He finds that under the 1924 law four States—New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Ohio—paid about one-half of the entire personal income tax. New York paid more personal income tax than 41 States and Hawaii combined. New Jersey paid more personal income tax than 19 States and Hawaii combined. Pennsylvania paid more personal income tax than 31 States and Hawaii combined. Ohio paid more personal income tax than 29 States and Hawaii combined.

COAL PRICES ADVANCED.

Immediately following the settlement of the anthracite coal strike spokesmen for the operators hastened to announce that there would be no attempt to make the public pay the losses occasioned by the strike. The eagerness with which these gentlemen protested their unwillingness to charge higher prices for their coal than were exacted before last September fooled some consumers into the belief that the barons of the anthracite trade really meant what they said. But those who really entertained the hope that they would be able to refill their bins at the prices prevailing prior to the strike find themselves fooled again.

Burns Brothers, of New York, are the largest retail dealers in anthracite coal in the country. They operate more than 50 coal yards between Springfield, Mass., and Asbury Park, N. J., and are recognized as leaders in price quotations. These gentlemen on Friday announced the prices which are to be exacted this spring, which are from 75 cents to $1.25 per ton higher than before the strike. Similar advances doubtless will follow all over the country wherever anthracite is regarded as essential.

The commodity is being mined today upon the same wage scale as has existed for the past two years. The royalties have not been increased since last September, nor has the State of Pennsylvania added to the tax on anthracite. The Interstate Commerce Commission has not authorized an increase in freight rates. It costs exactly as much to produce and deliver a carload today as it cost last summer, and no more. But the operators, who lost millions in the earnings of their properties and who are the real price fixers, want to get that money back. The pockets and bank accounts of consumers are available for this purpose.

Perhaps these operators may discover, after all, that the consumer, like Cousin Ezzert of Red Gap, "can be pushed just so far." Many consumers have learned to use substitutes from necessity; they may continue to do so by choice.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt has started on the last leg of his journey home, having sailed from Southampton yesterday, after an extended hunting trip in Asia in search of the ivory poli. When he reaches New York, we may expect a revival of discussion among New York Republicans as to his eligibility for the gubernatorial nomination.

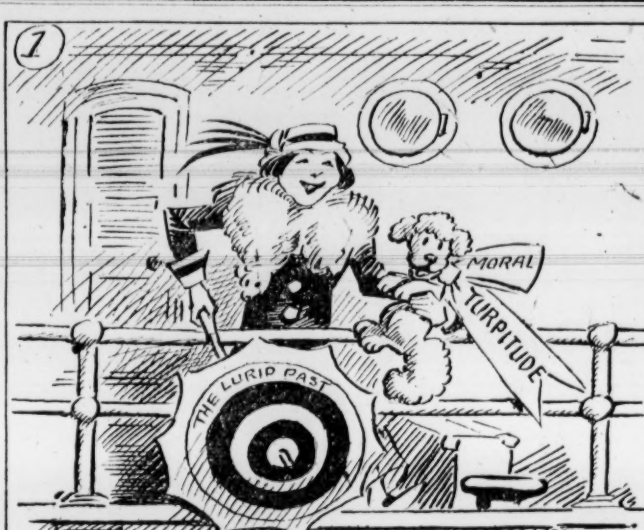

The Worst Joke I heard today was told to me by Houston Payne, of Ft. Smith, Ark. You all know Ft. Smith, Ark. It's the town where they used to take everybody from Oklahoma to hang 'em. It's reformed more Oklahomans than all the Churches. In fact, it is about the only way to make a good Oklahoman. There used to be hundreds of Oklahomans come there every year, just to be hung. Well, Houston has lived there all his life, what time he wasn't going to school with me at Booneville, Mo. He was one of the meanest boys in Kemper. I could never understand why Ft. Smith just hung outsiders. They never seemed to hang Home Talent.

Well, he come down to Little Rock to see me. He is a big Contractor up there now, and has jobs all over the country, so it don't do much good for a boy to be good at school anyway. Here I was the best boy in the school, and in after years it don't mean anything. He tells me Ft. Smith is one of the best towns in the State, and that an Oklahoman can come there now and return back home without being lifted out of the Baggage car. Mind you, I don't think Oklahoma has improved at all. That hanging thing wasn't a bad idea at all. I asked him if Ft. Smith had grown. "Grown," I have seven children myself." I asked him if they supplied Oklahoma with as much Liquor as they used to. He said, "No, just a bottle to get back home on. They mostly make their own up there now. The long haul and cost of transportation has changed the whole aspect of the liquor business. They make it and coffee every morning, as a few of the older ones can't get over preferring Coffee."

As I said, John has about any age child you want. He told me of one of his boys who had become a Boy Scout. His Father asked him one day, knowing that a Scout is supposed to do one good turn every day, "What did you do today, Houston, as your good deed today?" "Oh," said Houston, Jr., "Mother had only Caslor Oil enough for one dose, and I let Brother take it."

Is Force Really Futile?

By GLENN FRANK

THE other day, in this column, in discussing the fact that modern men still embrace the cult of violence and believe that mankind can be saved by force, I advanced four propositions, viz.
Violence can not protect institutions.
Violence can not kill ideas.
Violence can not terrify men into agreement.
Violence can not destroy the morale of the determined.

I ended with the suggestion that "violence never achieves more than fleeting and tentative triumphs."

A host of readers and several editorial writers took instant and vigorous exception to this statement. They said that I had failed to appreciate the role that force has played in history. For all these and for others who may have disagreed without dictating a letter, let me try to make clearer my contention.

I do not agree with the reactionary that the violence of repression insures peace.

I do not agree with the radical that the violence of revolt insures progress.

One would think that the war and the peace conference that followed it would have settled for once and forever the limitations of force in the settlement of human difficulties.

We entered the war in the spirit of an active international mission; helped fight the war to a victorious conclusion; and celebrated the armistice in a rare riot of satisfaction with what we regarded as a war well done.

In our uncritical crusading passion we seemed to go on the assumption that, if we could only manage to defeat the enemy on the battlefield, a new heaven and a new earth would almost automatically appear.

But today we are beginning to realize that, aside from meeting the immediate menace of military power gone mad, there is hardly one of the major problems of the world's tangled politics and economics that we have really solved. The amount of unfinished business left by the peace conference is staggering.

This fact dramatically illustrates the very limited role that force plays in human affairs.

Now and then statesmanship finds itself backed into a corner, crowded, with neither elbow room nor breathing space. In such times force may flourish its sword to good effect, hacking out an open space in which statesmanship may have freedom to work, elbow room, breathing space, but that is all.

The open space is not in itself a solution of the problems at issue; the open space is only a fresh challenge to statesmanship.

Unless the Versailles of the world supplement the Verduns of the world, unless the statesmen supplement the soldier, unless constructive policy follows destructive force, the last state of affairs may be little better than the first.

The modern heresy against which I pleaded in my earlier essay is the widespread tendency to rely upon force alone as a solvent of our difficulties.

Force is a last-resort weapon with a limited function. It is too much trusted alike by red radicals and by red reactionaries.

PRESCOTT'S PIZARRO.

The recent sale to an American collector of hitherto unknown original documents dealing with the conquest of Peru by Pizarro may make it necessary for some one to revise Prescott's colorful history, which stands today as the one masterful and authentic story of those dramatic times, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The historian based his history very largely on a manuscript written by Pedro Pizarro 40 years after the events described, but the documents just acquired by an American contain the original papers, including the decrees signed by the Spanish king and the dispatches which passed between important personages concerned. It may develop that there is nothing in the manuscripts that materially alters the facts as Prescott found them. It would be regrettable otherwise, for it would lessen the importance of one of the most brilliant and fascinating historical narratives ever written.

It is quite possible the manuscripts will bear out the Prescott story, or contribute nothing new of such importance that it can not be incorporated in an editor's footnote. The lovers of the Massachusetts historian will sincerely hope that such is the case.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Insanitary Schools.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir, I think the city of Washington would do well to follow the example of the city of Minneapolis in its method of "schools for janitors," whereby they are trained in sanitation, ventilation, heating and cleaning of schools, so as to better protect and safeguard the health of the student body.

A recent investigation made by Representative Mary Norton, of New Jersey, disclosed the fact that out of thirteen schools visited in the District of Columbia, twelve were found to be insanitary. The superintendent of schools did not dispute or deny the fact, but gave as an excuse, "No funds." But it does not seem to me to be a good excuse, for water is free and plentiful, and scrub brushes and soap or washing powder are cheap enough, and all that is needed of the janitor is a sense of his duty and responsibility, coupled with a little elbow grease to keep things clean.

If the money is not available for the few simple tools necessary for cleanliness, such as brushes and soap, then the children, parents and teachers should, and I feel sure would gladly, contribute for such a vital cause.

The janitor should be instructed in sanitation, ventilation, heating, etc., and made to feel that he is a potent factor in the good health of the school and, if he does not show a willingness to learn and keep things clean, fire him and hire another.

The principal of the school should make weekly or daily inspection tours.

The boys and girls should be encouraged to do so, and the importance of keeping the school and property clean.

Washington, Feb. 25.

Civil Pensions.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir, The following is offered as a just principle which might be considered in drafting pension bills for government civil employees:

That every employee who has served the government for fifteen or more years, at whatever period of his life, should be entitled to a proportionate pension (based on period served) from the sixty-fifth or seventieth year on, and not preference be given only to those who give the last fifteen or more years of their lives to the government.

The present law makes it desirable to enter the government service after 40 years of age to enjoy pension rights. Appointments under civil service are somewhat difficult to procure after 40, for various reasons, generally necessitating political influence or presidential orders.

No recognition as to pension rights is given those who give the first fifteen or more years of their life to the government. Would there not be much more new blood entering the service if employees knew they could resign after stated periods, still retaining their pension rights? If they knew they did not have to stay "until the end of time" to receive pension privileges?

Government work, generally, is unending when one does the same kind of work for long periods of years, and many of the business and collegiate minds in the service would welcome a year or less of extended leave after each of such (say 15, 20, 25 and 30 year) periods to try their wings in other fields. Such a policy of leaves would not only be upbuilding to the individual, but the government would receive better service from the employee should he return again to the government service.

THE CHRISTIAN SPIRIT

"This is my commandment, that ye love one another, as I have loved you."—John 15:12

THE Christian Spirit consists in love, the desire to give to others the best one has. And what can be so good, so desirable to impart, as the very spirit of Love, which is Christianity itself? To meet criticisms with kindness, crossness with gentleness, insult with courtesy and injury with charity, is the way to conquer the world.

As in the life of the Master, so in the life of every faithful disciple, the cross must be borne, the perpetual sacrifice must be made, as the price of Love's presence in a world of selfishness and hate; but the cross is transformed into a crown of rejoicing, the sacrifice is transformed into privilege and pleasure by those precious personal relationships which are supreme glory and gladness of the soul.

The sacrifice that the Christian makes to get his Father's will, his Master's mission, is like the sacrifice a mother makes for her sick and suffering child—the dearest and sweetest experience of life. The cross thus gladly borne, the yoke of sacrifice thus unostentatiously assumed, is the supreme expression of the Christian Spirit.

GIGLI, IN HIS FIRST CONCERT HERE, WINS PRAISE ON FERVOR

Heavy Police Guard Watches
at Tenor's First Appearance Since Threats.

SIX CURTAIN CALLS FOLLOW OPENING ARIA

Composition of Carnevali, Accompanist, Pleases—Mlle. Roma Exceptionally Good.

Beniamino Gigli, leading tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Co., gave his first concert since receiving a black-hand threat in Detroit recently, at Poli's theater yesterday afternoon before an audience whose proportions were visibly affected by the publicity caused by the threats. It was the tenor's first appearance in Washington.

Ample police protection had been afforded him, however. Besides his personal bodyguard, a husky companion who attends him everywhere, two detectives had been assigned to escort him from his hotel to the theater and uniformed policemen were noticed not only in the foyer of Poli's theater, but in the back of the auditorium during the concert. The smiling Italian, who is conceded to be the most likely successor to Caruso, displayed a debonair manner and took the six curtain calls after his first aria, "O Paradiso," from Meyerbeer's "L'Africain," with smiling insouciance, responding finally with "La Donna e Mobile," which was one of the high points of the concert.

Signor Gigli was assisted by Mlle. Roma, soprano, and Vita Carnevali, his accompanist, who is a noted Italian composer-pianist.

Tone is Robust.
Finesse, robustness of tone, tenderness of expression and color distinguish his singing. His sotto voice is a marvel and the ardent dramatic fervor he throws into even the simplest song wins his audience at once. There is a decided resemblance to Caruso's magnificent voice in Gigli's vocal utterances but he has an individuality of his own which is quite as distinct as was that of Caruso. In the famous "Vesta la Guiba" song from Pagliacci, a good opportunity was given for comparison between the two voices. It was noticeable that Gigli sings it without the pronounced sob that the other distinguished Caruso's version.

Mlle. Roma, whose first group of songs included "Sento nel Core" by Scarlatti, "Chere Nuit" Bachelet and Catalani's "La Wally" has a soprano of great clarity and technical beauty but which at times is somewhat monotonous in its delivery. However, she was exceptionally good in her duet from "La Boheme" with Gigli and also in her second group of songs particularly "The Crying of Water" by Campbell-Tipton. Prolonged applause greeted Signor Gigli's singing of "Stornelli Capricciosi," a lovely song which was the composition of Signor Carnevali, the accompanist of the afternoon.

In the aria "M'apparti" from "Martha," the tenor exhibited his command of smooth tone production and a lovely lyric quality in each note.

THROGS SEE BODY OF BUTLER HANGING AT DELAWARE JAIL

Negro, Twice Saved From Mobs After Attacking Girl,
Is Executed.

CROWD IN JOLLY MOOD,
WAITING MANY HOURS

Victim, 10 Years Old, Said
She Wanted to Pull Rope on the Gallows Trap.

Georgetown, Del., Feb. 26 (By A. P.).—Henry Butler, convicted of a felonious attack upon 10-year-old Eleanor Steinmetz, was hanged in the jail yard here today. The trap was sprung at 10:04 and he was pronounced dead at 10:15.

The child victim of the negro's attack was convalescing at a farm near Bridgeville as the Delaware law, which imposes the death sentence for such crimes, was carried out.

During the night Eleanor was said to have told her mother that she wished she could "pull the rope" of the trap for hanging Butler.

The negro was taken from his cell in the county prison shortly before 10 o'clock to the sound of boos and catcalls from a large crowd that surrounded the jail for several squares.

Ready to "Go to Glory."

Prior to going to the scaffold Butler had prayed with friends and two ministers and had announced himself "ready to go to glory."

As Deputy Sheriff Bud Coy escorted the condemned man into the courtyard, where the gallows awaited, persons in the crowd who had climbed trees overlooking the place of execution described the scene to the crowds below.

The black cap was pulled over Butler's head and the noose adjusted about his neck as he murmured, "O God, save my soul!"

An unseen hand of the hangman pulled the trap rope. The drop failed to break the negro's neck, and it was twelve minutes before Dr. Joseph B. Waples, of Georgetown, and Dr. William R. Messick, of Lewis, pronounced life extinct.

With the execution over, preparations were made for public view of the body, which was left dangling from the gallows. A small gate in the courtyard wall was opened, so that the line of persons could obtain a momentary glimpse of the executed man as they passed by.

The conduct of the crowd was orderly, in contrast to the scenes during Butler's trial, when State troops, called out by the governor, were forced to use tear gas to keep the crowd from rushing into the courthouse.

In addition to the observers in tree tops, other persons gathered on roofs that permitted glimpses into the prison yard.

The streets outside were lined with automobiles. Children were scattered through the crowd.

Girl's Father Sees Hanging.

It was said that the father of the little girl victim was in the crowd that viewed the hanging.

Butler was brought to Georgetown at 4 a. m. under heavy guard from the New Castle workhouse at Wilmington. Few persons were about when he arrived, and the special detail of State police had nothing to do. Butler immediately went to sleep and awoke after 6 a. m. He refused breakfast, saying he did not feel well. Between that time and the hour of execution he spent his time praying.

Eleanor Steinmetz was attacked at her home near Bridgeville on January 21, in the absence of her parents from their farm house. She was later found nearby badly beaten and with several fractures of the skull. The crime aroused the indignation of the citizens of all lower Delaware and after Butler's arrest the authorities rushed him to the more secure jail near Wilmington. Fearing violence, Gov. Robinson ordered out a detachment of State troops to protect the negro at his trial and tear-gas bombs were used to keep the crowd in check.

Crowd in Jolly Mood.

As the crowd assembled early in the day, a score of men and boys climbed adjacent trees and from them reached the top of the wall, from which they dropped to the prison yard.

They were in a jolly mood and sang songs, several of them, it was said, mounting the scaffold and accompanying the singing on mouth organs. They were promptly driven out by the sheriff.

The body was left on view for two hours and was then taken in charge by an undertaker. It was taken to Butler's home at Bridgeville and will be interred at Bethel, Md., tomorrow.

Mrs. Wright Denied Warrant for Husband

Chicago, Feb. 26 (By A. P.).—A warrant was denied Mrs. Miriam Noel Wright, who complained to the State's attorney's office yesterday seeking a warrant for the arrest of her husband, Frank Lloyd Wright, noted architect, and mentioning another woman.

Federal officers referred her to the State's attorney. Assistant State's Attorney G. J. Tourek heard her story and refused a warrant, saying her statement was only hearsay.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 26 (By A. P.).—Trial of the divorce suit of Frank Lloyd Wright, internationally known architect of Chicago, scheduled for March 11, at Baraboo, Wis., was postponed indefinitely today upon motion of counsel for Mrs. Miriam Noel Wright, who said more time was needed to obtain depositions in California, New York and other places.

CIVILIAN GARB DECREED FOR NUNS BY MEXICANS

Two More Catholic Colleges and a Convent Closed; Priests Expelled.

CHURCHES MAY REOPEN

Matamoros, Mexico, Feb. 26 (By A. P.).—Nuns of the convent of the Incarnate Word here have been given until Monday to don civilian garb or leave the country. The convent and a school conducted by the nuns were closed yesterday by order of Gov. Portes Gil, of the state of Tamaulipas.

The school is to reopen Monday under direction of the gauchos Barragan de Cross, and all religious teaching is to be eliminated from the course, it was announced. Jalapa, Mexico, Feb. 26 (By A. P.).—The Catholic college here, conducted by Spanish priests, has been closed by the authorities.

Fifty Spanish priests have been expelled from Mexico since February 1, and those remaining are to be deported shortly. Mexico City, Feb. 26 (By A. P.).—It is understood on good authority that the department of the interior has granted applications for the reopening of several churches recently closed in the government's campaign to enforce the constitutional provision barring foreigners as ministers of religion. In each case, it is learned, the application has been made by the local official in charge of church matters under the constitutional laws making all churches property of the nation.

Dr. Jose Manuel Puig, minister of public instruction, has issued regulations for private primary schools. He intends to close private schools violating the law, which prohibits religious instruction, and to establish government schools in the neighborhood so children will not be deprived of educational opportunities.

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES McDONALD

The Lion and the Lamb

DEAR Miss McDonald: I'm wondering if you could help me. I have read so much of your letters and they seem to be such good advice. I have been married two years and my husband, if he is showing his true self, is one of the best actors I believe in existence. However, what I want to know is can I do any more to help him. He is insanely jealous. Reason none. He is a "good" provider. Yet I can see he would rather not be. He continually says he is making good money, but it all goes. Yes—it does, but where? We have bought our own home, furniture and besides you must know what it costs to live. I have no friends left—it seems no girl is quite good enough for me to associate with, yet his friends may come in at any time and bring the girls he used to go around with—and not a word said! Then if he even knows of one of my girl friends ever having been here it means torn clothes, bruises and what not for me. I have always had so many girl friends, in fact it was my delight to go around to shows, and to dinner with just a good jolly bunch of girls. But only two of them ever pick up courage enough to come to see me any more for he would make such a scene each time they came that they would never come again. It was not often enough either for him to be angered over—maybe once in two or three weeks.

I am not one of those little "afraid cat" women, but I want to do my duty and make our marriage a success. He says he can do as he pleases, but that I should stay home and do my work. I am not a novice in keeping a home. I was born and raised on a farm with thirty and forty men to cook and clean for.

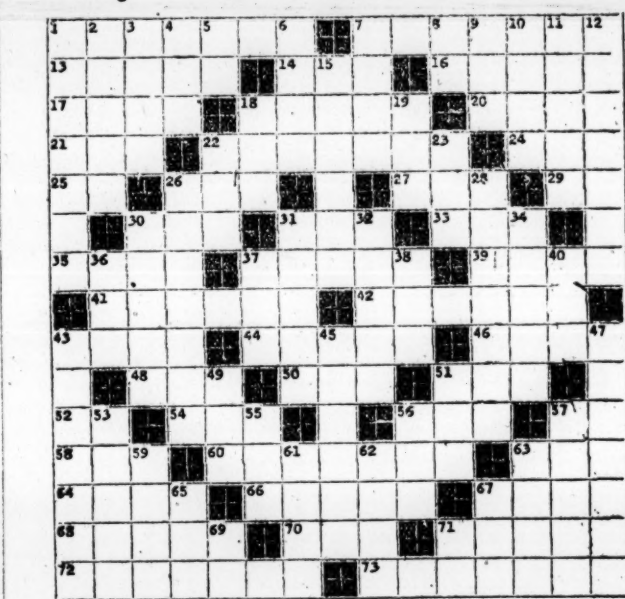

Miss McDonald, some way I believe he can be cured of his jealousy and narrow mindedness, but how? He drinks at times and that is terrible. I can't even go to a movie in the afternoon. I even had to stop going to a physician to have my teeth filled. Really I am just about frantic.

And yet he says he loves me! Can it be? When he regards so little my happiness and health? After such scenes he comes to me and asks me to forgive him. He says he will never be so mean again—only to turn right around and do the same thing over. He says he has no cause or reason for anything he has done to make me so miserable. What could you, I was always home scrubbing, mending, cooking and trying to get ahead financially in life, doing and making the things your husband liked most—never going out at all? He even goes to the grocer's in the evening as he says he don't want me going there. It is weeks at a time I don't get outside my door. Then to have him come in and rave over a mere nothing. Do you think you could fathom out a way or cure for such actions? I see people going here and there and I believe I'd rather be in jail really, than to be in such circumstances. I buy very few clothes and only then when he goes along.

I guess it's a great life if you don't weaken, but I'm getting quite frail. I would greatly appreciate anything you might advise me to do for I am quite at a loss to know what step to take next.

BLANCHE.
Unless the man is really a mental case you are as blameworthy as he for the conditions you describe.

BANKERS' HEAD UPHOLDS INSTITUTE SCHOOL WORK

G. Addison, Jr., Declares
Men Must Be Trained
For Growth Here.

RIGGS NATIONAL GAINS

By F. W. PATTERSON.

Washington has shown a most constant growth, and as the District grows so must our banks and their resources keep pace with this growth," said Francis G. Addison, Jr., president of the District Bankers' association, in discussing the training of men in the schools conducted by the American Institute of Banking, to carry on the banking business here and elsewhere.

"I have made some very interesting comparisons of the city's growth within the past 20 years," said Mr. Addison. "The police census of 1905 showed Washington to have a population of less than 234,000. The same census of 1925 showed a population in excess of 435,000, or an increase of 41 per cent.

"Total deposits in local banks on June 20, 1925, were more than $220,000,000, or more than 20 per cent more than the deposits of 1905. The bank earnings in 1925 were $225,000,000, or an increase in earnings of 5.3 times as much as in 1905.

"Pointing out that there are some who believe that the population and bank resources will continue to increase in the next 20 years, as it has during the last 20 years, he declared that whatever the result at the end of the next 20 years the responsibility for training men for the future still remains with the present officers and directors of District banks.

Stock Exchange Strong

None of the confused movements of the New York market spread to the Washington stock exchange, and yesterday's session, despite the strong tone of quotations, developed one of the lightest trading days of the new year.

Capital Traction Co. opened 12 points under close of the day before, but picked up to 17 1/4 on next sale. Closing bid was 17 1/4. Washington Railway & Electric preferred remained strong and unchanged at 91, as did Washington Gas Light Co. shares, of which changed hands at 91. Dealing in bonds was negligible.

To Be Honored At Dinner

R. Jesse Chaney, president, and T. Hinton Leith, first vice president of the Washington chapter, American Institute of Banking, will be honor guests of the New York chapter at an annual dinner in New York tonight.

W. W. Spaid, Harry V. Haynes and Walter J. Waller, past presidents of the local chapter, and E. J. McQuade, president of the Washington Alumni association of the Washington chapter, will leave for New York today and will attend the banquet, as has been their custom for several years.

Bill Morrell's Mlle. Lenglen Arm Slightly Strained Set Against Match

New Haven Recruit Cautioned Against Fast Twirling.

Ray Joyce's Curves Stamp Youngster as "Comer."

By FRANK H. YOUNG.
TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 26.—Pitcher Willard Morrell, pulled up with a sore arm during the morning workout and probably will be given a couple of days' rest as a result. The New Haven recruit, like all of the Washington youngsters here, has taken his work too seriously and tried to reach midseason form in a week. Now he is sadder but wiser.
His injury is not serious, being merely a muscle strain. Trainer Martin is doctoring him up and indications are that neither the layoff nor the hurt will do him any harm. Provided, of course, he does not start running wild again, when he resumes pitching.
He is not the only one who is having his troubles, as Uncle Nick Altrock wrenched one of the muscles in his shoulder yesterday and could not raise his left arm as high as his head this morning. The old-timer who declares that he did not sleep a wink last night because of the pain, was so quiet and dignified all day that Manager Harris accused him of "acting his age."

PITCHER RAY JOYCE is beginning to show considerable stuff. Curve ball hurlers do not look as impressive when first out as do the speedsters and neither is their progress so noticeable. Ray is getting more and more stuff on the ball every day, however, and he surprised Catcher Hank Seeverd with some of his teasers.

All of the news given out here today by President Clark Griffith concerns doings in Washington. Of particular interest to fans is his announcement that new ticket windows and a new club office is being built and will be ready when the season opens.
The present quarters will be torn down and new ones built, which will extend from the Bohner street entrance down almost to Georgia avenue. Arches underneath will still make the entrance available. The first floor will contain ticket booths and Secretary Eynon's office, with the club's general headquarters upstairs. Thirty-seven ticket booths, each with its own entrance and exit, will extend toward Georgia avenue.

Jim Lyle is another pitcher who gave Manager Harris an eyeful this morning. He has a fast side-arm sinker which is not going to be any too popular with alien batters, espe-

Not to Meet Miss Wills on Riviera on Advice of Doctor.

Many Believe Suzanne Will Play for Sake of Father.

By A. P. P.—A return match between Miss Helen Wills, so far as the Riviera is concerned, is doomed, and Miss Wills must wait a few months for another chance to gain the world's tennis championship. Suzanne has definitely decided to lay aside her singles racket until the French championships in June.
She tearfully announced, after a long consultation with her doctors, that she must refrain from playing in the singles in the tournament at her home town, Nice, where it was hoped by tennis devotees that the American and French champions would meet across the net.
Just across the street from the little villa where Suzanne makes her home, overlooking the courts of the Nice club, 100 workmen were busy putting up 5,000 extra seats to accommodate the crowds expected for a Lenglen-Wills match. Leon Garibaldi, president of the Nice club, on receiving Suzanne's decision, immediately ordered the work stopped.

SUZANNE'S announcement cast gloom over the thousands of spectators watching Miss Wills play today. The American girl disposed of Miss Eileen Bennett, of England, 6-3, 6-2, in the semifinals for the Duke of Connaught's gold cup. As she walked off the courts, Helen said:
"I am sorry to hear of Mlle. Lenglen's poor health. I hope she recovers sufficiently to play in June. I have plenty of time. I feel better than I ever have."

Dr. Roger Castell, who has attended Suzanne in recent years, said:
"I take entire responsibility for my patient's decision. It is not a question of tennis with me, or world championships, but merely one of safeguarding health. Should she change her mind and play at Nice, she does so against my advice. I refuse to assume responsibility for the consequences."
Despite the official announcements of both the Nice club and Mlle. Lenglen, there are many here who believe the match will take place. They felt that Suzanne, if she is in any sort of physical form, will play for her father's sake. As secretary of the Nice Tennis club, he occupies a villa built out of funds appropriated by the club for general improvement of the courts and

U. S. DOUBLES TEAM BEATS FRENCH

Tilden and Richards Win Over Brugnon and Lacoste.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26 (By A. P.).—The magic touch of victory returned to William Tilden's racket today for the first time since America's tennis supremacy has been challenged by France's young invaders. With Vincent Richards as his partner, the American national champion led the way to an uphill victory of the Seventh Regiment armory, over Rene Lacoste and Jacques Brugnon in the third match of the international indoor series. The scores were 4-6, 6-2, 8-10, 6-1, 7-5.
This doubles triumph gave the United States a lead of two matches to one in the series, which will be concluded tomorrow with two singles matches on the courts of the Seventh Regiment armory. Tilden will face Borotra while Richards will encounter Lacoste in these contests and victory in either will give America the decision.
Tilden, apparently stung by the successive singles setbacks he has suffered at the hands of Borotra and Lacoste within the past week, was the dominant factor in the American team's triumph this afternoon.

HE had brilliant support from Richards, these two joining forces in an interludal play for the first time since 1922, but it was the dynamic force of the champion's game that pulled the match out of the fire after the Frenchmen had gained a lead of two sets to one.

Tilden set a dazzling pace in the fourth set, swamping the invaders in twelve minutes. Tilden again bore the brunt of the deciding struggle in the final set, driving with irresistible power, accuracy and storming the net to flash as brilliant a volleying game as he had ever shown.
When Richards weakened momentarily toward the close of the set, enabling the Frenchmen to bring it to deuce as he lost his service, it was Tilden who came to the rescue, pounding back Lacoste's delivery for "a break" in the eleventh game and then making his own "cannon ball" service good in the deciding game.

Analysis of the match shows how closely the battle was waged on the whole, only 11 points separating the rival teams.

Army of District Athletes In Hopkins Meet Tonight

Georgetown and Maryland to Send Teams; Eastern, Central, Western, Tech and Devitt to Be Represented.

THE annual Johns Hopkins indoor track and field meet in Baltimore tonight will draw a record number of Washington athletes. Georgetown and Maryland universities are sending over their entire varsity and freshman teams, while Eastern, Western, Central and Tech High schools and Devitt Prep will be represented in the scholastic events.
The Georgetown teams will leave at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, one of the intercity busses having been chartered to do the transporting.
In past meets the Hilltoppers have usually had things pretty much their own way, and tonight's meet only in the 44-yard dash, the mile college relay event being in the nature of a duel with Maryland engaging Yale. The Old Lineers are favored to finish first.

THE crack Blue and Gray mile relay team of Me-Clain, Burgess, Swineburn and Archer will compete only in the 44-yard dash, the mile college relay event being in the nature of a duel with Maryland engaging Yale. The Old Lineers are favored to finish first.

Charley Hoff, the Norwegian sensation, is expected to furnish another world's indoor record in the pole vault tonight. It has been announced that tonight he will clear the bar at 13 feet and 7 inches, which will be a 2 1/2 inch boost of his last record ascension. In addition to competing in his specialty, Hoff also will attempt to set a record for the 50-yard run.

Emerson Norton, the Hilltoppers all-around star, will not take part in tonight's meet. He wrenched his back some two weeks ago in one of the indoor meets while on duty as the indoor meet's referee, and has been under a physician's orders since. However, it is thought that he will be able to participate in the intercollegiate championships in New York a week from tonight.

In the scholastic events, Tech will have 30 athletes competing in an effort to win a second leg of the Pennsylvania trophy, which was annexed by the Manual Trainers last year.

CENTRAL also has a leg on the same cup and will present sixteen entries while Eastern is taking one of the biggest track squads ever to represent that school. Western has but two entries.

While Devitt Prep has been concentrating on its relay team which captured the scholastic mile at Richmond, it will have a sprinkling of entries in other events. Zack will compete in the 44-yard dash, while Cogswell will enter the one-mile open.

The list of local entries follows:
COLLEGIATE.
100-yard dash—Georgetown (Dowling, Whelan, Haines, Mellon, Plunkett, Rime, O'Shea, Hines); Maryland (Thomas, Pugh, Peere, Sharf).
100-yard hurdles—Georgetown (Hana, Peere); Maryland (Paley); Eliott, Kwaier, Peere, Sharf.
440-yard dash—Georgetown (McClain, Swineburn, Burgess, Archer, Greenleaf, Taggart, O'Shea, Coates, McLain); Maryland (Thomas, Pugh, Peere, Sharf, Webster); Rich Prep (Georgetown (Webster); Mary Devitt (Paley).

HUB BOWLERS ROLL HERE TONIGHT

Stars Appear in Three Events on Convention Hall Drives.

By W. CHARLES QUANT.
THE Miah Murray bowling team of Boston and a representative Washington five will clash on the Convention Hall alleys tonight at 7:20 o'clock in the best card offered duckpin fans in the history of the game. Manager Murray has brought with him the same team that has annexed the championship of Boston ten times in fifteen years.

Though the chief game of the visitors is candlepins, they are confident that they can emerge on the long end of the score. The visit of the Boston club is not only for the purpose of an intercity match, but they are to report back to the establishments governing bowling in New England, the progress duckpins have made here with the intention of having it replace the famous candlepin game of Boston.

The team match will be the initial number on the program with "Reds" Megaw, opening fire for the locals. He will be followed by the ever-confident McPhilmoy, who has but one peer in the duckpin game here, and he is Glenn Wolstenholme. Glenn will roll anchor, Al Work will roll pivot position, with Arthur Urban of the reliable Howard Campbell following him. Perce Elliot and George Friend will be held in reserve for an emergency call.

MANAGER MURRAY will probably lead off with Bergman or Bonigli. Both players are stars at their game, candlepins, the latter being champion of the Boston Suburban league this year.

Fred Haley will roll pivot opposed to the veteran Al Work. Archie Walsh, Poehler's doubles partner, who has been seen in action here before, holds the New England candlepin record of 1,254 for ten games and has been winning regularly at the duckpin game.

The outstanding star of the match, however, is Paul Poehler claimant of the world's title for small ball rolling. He has met all comers for several seasons and has still to meet his match, especially at candlepins. "Lefty" Mitchell will be held in reserve.

Immediately following the team game Glenn Wolstenholme, conqueror of Earl McPhilmoy and recognized as the best duckpin bowler in the District, will meet Poehler in a five-game singles affair that should be of as great interest as the team affair.

Poehler will then stage the iron-man trick, by teaming with Walsh in a doubles match with McPhilmoy, loser in the singles, and "Reds" Megaw, the man who is averaging 117 in three different leagues of the city.

Burt Watt Captures Cue Tourny Title

Burt Watt won the pocket billiard exhibition tournament at the Grande parlors last night by defeating Carl Green, 75 to 44. Tonight Carl Green will engage William Parsons in a battle for second honors, which will close the tourney.

Old Line Five Negro Earns Beaten in Decision in 15 Rounds

Kentucky Wins Over Virginia Military, 32 to 19.

Style Puzzles Former Titleholder Who Is Beaten to Punches.

Pittsburgher Is Never Able to Get Started as Crown Passes.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 26.—Maryland supplied the most sensational upset of the day in the annual Southern conference basketball tournament now in progress here when it took the court against Mississippi A. and M. this afternoon, expecting to win handily, and left it under a first-round defeat. The score was 22 to 19, largely because the Mississippi quintet fought hard, sank its efforts from the 15-foot line and tried hard at every minute.
Maryland appeared to take the game as a workout for the first few minutes of play and when the College Park outfit realized what it was up against, Mississippi A. and M. had gained confidence and possessed the punch for victory.

THE work of Faber, right forward for Maryland, was outstanding, but his efforts were entirely overshadowed by Ricks, right forward for the Mississippians, who fought off Maryland efforts under the basket and played a great offensive game as well.

Berry, left forward for the victors, was high point man for the victors, registering eight points, of which six were from the 15-foot line. He did not miss a single try from the foul line.
The work of Supplee at center was only fair. Both Bryant and Harness outplayed him.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26 (By the Associated Press).—Harry Greb, three-year king of the middleweights, was dethroned to-night by the sensational Tiger Flowers, of Atlanta, Ga., the first negro to hold the championship of the middleweight division. Flowers' victory came through a judges' decision at the end of a fifteen-round bout in Madison Square Garden, witnessed by 18,000 persons.

Greb, to newspaper men at the ringside, was not himself, appearing drawn and nervous at the start, but the negro was in excellent condition and confident. Seldom did the famous "windmill" onslaught of the great Pittsburgh battler appear to worry his challenger, one set back for the Southerner coming in the fourth round, when Greb battered him to all corners of the ring, and another in the thirteenth.

The Tiger, veteran of many encounters, his recent record marred only by two knockouts at the hands of the light heavyweight from Bridgeport, Conn., Jack Delaney, last winter, fought a steady, workmanlike battle throughout, a right-hand slap introduced at the beginning of each round seeming to worry the champion. Flowers had the reach, and with right foot forward, he presented a style difficult for any boxer to fathom.

Boxing critics argued that the margin obtained by the negro was too small for a title to change hands, although it was generally admitted that he won under the rules of the New York State athletic commission, which provide that all bouts must be decided by rounds gained. At the end both appeared to have been little damaged in the fray, although each had gashes over his left eye from jabs in the early rounds.

FLOWERS started a savage attack and pinned Greb against the ropes, but the Pittsburgher fought back with the viciousness that has carried him through more than 200 encounters. The battle here brought the crowd to its feet cheering. Flowers retreated under the fire and Greb captured the round by a shade.

Then Greb changed his tactics, withdrew into his shell and apparently became satisfied with defense alone. Only once thereafter, in the fourth round, did he return to the slashing two-hand punching that had retained for him the championship won from Johnny Wilson at Georgia Tech, 36; Alabama, 27.

CLOCKERS SAY Selection is Now Fit

Prince of Umbria Is Dropped Into Snug
Spot in Fourth.

Canister Looms Best of Day Down at Miami Course.

By BERT E. COLLIER.

HERE comes the devil, Gray's XXX speed, BIG HEART, lamp the rab appended by the lads who fondle the tick-tock clocks when most of us are warming feathers. "Just needed that last power," he says, a snail and the right take is down today. LONG POINT, which is also right at his best, is next in order, with P. S. JORDAN, and the erratically paced CYCLOPS, long up. The rank outsider is QUINCY GARDEN, whose last race was even better than clocked would indicate.

RED HEAD, although named among the also eligibles, stands out in the day's opener. He is a doubtful starter. The best way to doubt this race is leave it alone.

AILEEN P., this way rigged, looks like an "eagle bird" in the third. The Baker representative, JACK RABBIT, figures to win, but he is a bad post actor, you are betting even money he gets away. ANTIQUARIAN seems to be of the improving sort.

PRINCE OF UMBRIA is dropped into a nice, snug spot in the fourth. His recent morning trials have bordered the sensational, mile in 1:41 for today's right on the chin strap. The entry of BALBOA and DUCK-WEED hold the others away. BALBOA is nice sort of a bid.

TEA BELL and ESCARCA figure very close together in fifth. Racing luck and jockeys will play a very prominent part. Give the rider every consideration.

The consistent DAY TRAP looks to hold his field safe in the sixth, while the LEOPARD is named to bring home the coonskins in the closing spasm.

Down at Miami the poison is CANISTER to win the opening dash. I know there was a ton of dough burned up on this race last time he was forced to overcome a world of bad racing luck on that occasion.

CHAMP DE MARS, palpably short last time, should run in the second. This is a high-class colt.

The GREENTREE ENTRY is taken to take measure of AC-COMPLISH in the day's feature. THRACE, of course, is the chief reliance.

The GREENTREE is also well worked in the sixth. THE VINTNER worked sensationally just prior to leaving Jefferson Park.

MOUNT BEACON and the SWANE ENTRY for the closing race, though THE POET, an in-and-out, found keen overnight support. Tablins, boys, tablins.

New Orleans.

Campaigners for Jewish Community Center members turned in 642 cards yesterday which boosted the grand total to 1,462, with two days remaining to reach the quota of 2,500. Morris Cafritz, general chairman, predicted the drive would go over the top.

The workers are striving to raise a necessary maintenance fund of more than $40,000. Ten classes of memberships, ranging from $3 a year to $500, are offered.

Mrs. John M. Safer's team went to the front with 156 members enrolled, but Mrs. Henry Hirsch's campaign was the most effective money getter, with $2,994 as their grand total, representing 109 memberships.

Mrs. Fred Pelzman's workers gathered 121 members and $2,187, while Mrs. Morris Gewirtz's team made an encouraging showing with 94 members and $2,003.

Store Values Best, Economist Finds

Of more than passing interest to women is a recent statement made by Dr. Alfred P. Haake, former professor of economics at the University of Wisconsin, on the subject of door-to-door selling.

Dr. Haake says, "One of the most costly and erroneous beliefs of American women today is that they can buy more conveniently and to greater advantage from the agent at their own doors than they can in retail stores."

"A fair and impartial investigation, extending over a long period, has shown that this belief is entirely unfounded, and that in every case, comparable merchandise can be purchased in local stores at equal or better prices."

"Study of the data secured during this investigation has led to a positive conviction that house-to-house selling is economically unsound, and that every advantage of price and quality is on the side of the store."

COUNCIL ON TRAFFIC ADVOCATES SYSTEM OF UNIFIED CONTROL

Would Place Policeman Guiding Vehicle Movements
Under Bureau Inspector.

UNIFORM ENFORCEMENT OF LAW SEEN AS RESULT

Committee Appointed to Present
Project to Superintendent of Police Hesse.

Centralized control of traffic was advocated in a resolution adopted last night at a meeting of the traffic council at the headquarters of the American Automobile association. Under this plan policemen assigned to traffic duty, but under the command of the precinct captains, would be placed under the command of the inspector in charge of the traffic bureau.

The proposed system of personnel control, according to the council, would result in better training for the traffic policemen and more uniformity in enforcing the law. Under the present divided control, it was asserted, policemen wave their arms differently and in some cases blow their whistles differently.

At present there are 75 motorcycle men assigned to traffic duty under command of precinct captains, and 32 patrolmen detailed at intersections, it was reported at the meeting. The number of "rush hour" traffic men was given as 30. The later would be controlled by the traffic inspector only in the matter of assignments, under the proposed plan.

Committee Appointed.

A committee of three, Charles W. Darr, Jerome Fancill and C. B. Clark, was appointed to present the proposed plan to Edwin B. Hesse, superintendent of police, and to collaborate with him in presenting it to the commissioners.

The council endorsed the stand taken by George W. Offutt, Jr., before the House District committee in regard to the financing of the automatic signal system. He maintained that the money for this system should not be taken from the funds collected for operators' permits.

The council advocated that motorists whose permits are revoked or suspended by the traffic director should have the right to appeal to the traffic court. Extension of the automatic signal system also was endorsed.

Eldridge to Submit Traffic Bill to House

A comprehensive traffic bill will be drafted by Traffic Director Eldridge and submitted to the House District subcommittee, headed by Representative Stalker, of New York, Monday, and from it the committee will get a bill dealing with all phases of the subject needing attention at this session.

Mr. Eldridge appeared before the committee yesterday and voiced opposition to certain features of the pending Blanton bill, particularly the provision for a hearing before any permit can be revoked. Drivers who are committed to St. Elizabeths obviously should not be given a hearing before their permit is revoked, said Mr. Eldridge, in contending that there should be different provisions for certain cases.

He said there should be authority for compulsory revocation in certain cases, revocation after hearing for others, and a flexible provision. All cases should be reviewed by the courts, but the revocation of the permit should stand pending the review, he said.

He also recommended that all traffic cases be handled in traffic court and promoted by corporation counsel instead of dividing them between Federal and traffic courts as is now the case.
